NEWS FROM THE CHAIR, Trevor Weatherhead AM

1. An update from the Executive on where we are with regard to a new CEO. The Executive are in the final throws of finalising the Position Description for the CEO. The opportunity was taken to update the Position Description. The position will soon be advertised.

2. AHBIC has been asked for assistance from the Australian Queen Bee Breeders Association (AQBBA) in making representations to Australia

Post regarding problems with delivery of queen bees. If you have had problems please let our acting CEO know about these so we can put together a case to go to Australia Post. Please do this within the next week.

3. Elsewhere in the newsletter you will see the opportunity to comment on Australia's domestic organic regulatory framework. If you are in the organic business please avail yourself of the opportunity to make a submission.
4. The Congress Sub-committee is finalising the registration form for the 4th Australian Bee Congress to be held in Sydney in June. Make sure you have registered your expression of interest at the website <https://australianbeecongress.com.au/> This way you will be advised immediately registrations open. I look forward to seeing you in Sydney.
5. You will also see in this newsletter references to the NEXDOC upgrade. If you export honey or apicultural products, most likely beeswax, then you need to study and take part in the virtual drop in sessions to learn more. Thank you to those exporters who helped in the sessions with the Department to make sure the changes were practical and able to be carried out by our industry exporters.
6. With all the rain in south east Queensland and northern New South Wales I hope there have been no hives caught up in the floods. Big lots of rain. At my place we had over 500mms for the period but down the coast I know it was well over the one metre mark.

NOTE FROM ACTING CEO, Danny Le Feuvre

It has been a busy 5 weeks for me, parachuting into the day to day running of AHBIC. To quote one of our former chairs, Peter McDonald "I thought I had a good understanding of what AHBIC did. I was astounded by the amount of work that is involved", 2018 chair report.

I thank Helen for the smooth transition that she facilitated and the amount of work Helen put into ensuring I had all the information to continue 'business as usual' for AHBIC.

Soon we will be able share the many 'fruits' of Helen's labour when the all new website goes live at the end of March, the National Beekeepers award program is launched and the 'Home sweet Home' campaign takes off in the coming months.

The Australian Queen Bee Breeders Association has requested the assistance of AHBIC to help drive a resolution to the multiple issues around the postage of queens. There are many anecdotal accounts of queens going astray but we need detailed cases that can be used to demonstrate the issues to Aust Post. If you have had issues please email AHBIC with details so we can catalogue the issues.

HEAR FROM ONE OF OUR MEMBERS

Bee Industry Council of Western Australia (BICWA)

G'day,

The red gum still shows a good flower pattern, and the WA bees are pleased, as are the beekeepers!

It has been a short month, where BICWA was busy fine-tuning its membership sign up process and preparing for the first board meeting in 2022 (25th FEB).

There has not been any further industry engagement concerning the Forest Management Plan (FMP), although BICWA submitted its concern in the Department's appointment of an independent panel. This panel is established to guide the development of the new FMP and should consist of proven performers in forest restoration, ecology or conservation. We continue lobbying for our industry and the broader communities.

The Marketing team at UWA, sponsored by the Cooperative Research Centre (CRC) for Honey Bee Products, delivers on the 25th FEB an update on the 'WA honey promotion' project. This project analyzes honey marketing overseas and provides valuable input for honey packers.

Unfortunately, we have decided to cancel the conference for the third year in a row. We now hope for the 4th time lucky in 2023.

Talk to you next month, and don't forget to subscribe to our webpage and like us on Facebook.

Regards,

Brendon Fewster - Chair

AHBIC Australian Beekeeper Award

THE AHBIC AUSTRALIAN BEEKEEPER AWARD

The Award program recognises a person who has demonstrated that they have made a positive difference to the Australian Honey Bee Industry. The program state finalists will participate in a workshop to develop their leadership and story telling skills. Each state finalist will produce a short video on a selected topic that will be judged by a national panel to select the national award recipient.

EXTENSIONAUS

- Ensure you make the most of these informative extensionaus -professional beekeepers resources.

SCHOLARSHIPS/PROGRAMS

- The Winston Churchill Trust will fund around 100 people from diverse walks of life so they can explore international best practice and innovation in a field of their choosing. Applications open February 1 2022, for travel overseas in 2023.

A series of virtual information sessions based around specific themes is being held to inspire project ideas and guide people through the application process. Each session will feature existing Churchill Fellows sharing their experiences, and live Q&As.

Applications can be made online from 1 February 2022, closing 28 April 2022. Registration for the virtual sessions is essential. To book and for more information visit churchillfellowships.com.au

EXPORT DOCUMENTATION ONLINE!!

AHBIC has been working with the Department of Agriculture, Water and the Environment to implement the NEXDOC system for the honey bee industry. This system will eventually replace the manual submissions of forms and speed up the process of getting export documentation from the Department. Initially NEXDOC will roll out for exports to Malaysia and will include honey and honey bee products (excluding live bees). See below for more information, I encourage anyone who exports honey to attend an information session.

Australian Government
Department of Agriculture,
Water and the Environment

Export certification for honey and apiculture products to Malaysia

Export certificate applications will move to the new NEXDOC system from 28 March.

If you are exporting honey or apiculture products, such as bee wax, to Malaysia your export certification is moving to the NEXDOC system.

Benefits of NEXDOC:

- Replaces manual applications and certificates with a faster online system
- Print certificates in your own office
- You can track the status of your application
- QR code security on certificates
- Electronic certificates have lower documentation charges.

Next steps:

Join us for an online information session to find out more. A link to join the sessions will be available on the NEXDOC webpage prior to the sessions.

Online session times
Wednesday	2 March	10.00am - 12.00pm
Friday	11 March	1.00pm - 3.00pm
Tuesday	15 March	10.00am - 12.00pm
Thursday	24 March	1.00pm - 3.00pm
Tuesday	29 March	2.00pm - 4.00pm
Thursday	7 April	10.00am - 12.00pm

NATIONAL BIOSECURITY STRATEGY

Give your feedback on the national biosecurity strategy, a collaboration between Australian, state and territory governments, industry, environment groups and communities.

The years ahead will bring more risks to our food and fibre industries and precious environment and places, in the form of pests and diseases. Working together now ensures we'll be ready.

The draft just released captures the views heard to date about how Australia's biosecurity system needs to evolve. It outlines priorities and actions we can take, and includes questions to guide your comments, which will inform next steps.

Your feedback will help shape the final version that will be presented to Australian ministers responsible for biosecurity later this year.

Everyone who enjoys Australia's food, fibre and environment benefits from our biosecurity system. This strategy is for all Australians, so all views are invited.

Read the draft and give your feedback by 18 March 2022.

Find out more at haveyoursay.awe.gov.au/national-biosecurity-strategy.

Have your say on domestic organics regulation

Public consultation is now open on Australia's domestic organic regulatory framework, including how to support industry growth and build consumer confidence.

First Assistant Secretary of Agricultural Policy at the Department of Agriculture, Water and the Environment, Joanna Stanion, invited all stakeholders, including farmers, transporters, exporters, retailers, consumers and industry bodies to have their say on a new organics regulation impact statement.

"The department is seeking stakeholder views on regulatory and non-regulatory options to improve Australia's domestic organic regulatory framework," Ms Stanion said.

"This is a growing part of the agriculture sector and we are keen to seek a wide range of views.

"The department's consultations to date have included an online business survey with over 100 responses, a targeted phone survey of producers and processors with over 500 respondents, an online consumer survey with over 1,000 responses, and a range of industry roundtables and one-on-one meetings."

The public consultation is now open and will close in four weeks on Thursday 17 March at 5pm.

Fast Facts:

- The global organic food & beverages market was estimated at USD 220 billion in 2019 (Globenewswire 2021) with over 71.5 million hectares of farmland certified organic globally (IFOAM – Organics International, 2020).
- Australia has the largest organic agricultural area in the world (35.7 million hectares).
- According to IBIS World, Australia's organic industry revenue is forecast to increase at an annualised 14.6 per cent over the five years through 2025-26, to $3.9 billion.
- With agriculture making up a substantial proportion of all organic output, this initiative is linked to the government's commitment to help the agriculture industry reach its goal of $100 billion in production by 2030 (Ag2030).
